

Boyden Sponsors The M&A Interim Manager of the Year Award

The M&A Awards were hosted by Daisy McAndrew, ITV's most senior female reporter, the award was open to individuals who had been involved in a number of mergers, acquisitions, recoveries or rescues, or any other situation involving transaction, working with the client to establish where value could be best added.

From a very strong shortlist, David Moore was awarded the prize for his role as Interim CFO of Amoena GmbH.

David commented "I hope this award will help further raise the profile of the interim profession. There is an increasing understanding that interims are not consultants. A good interim director is a highly effective way to kick start and implement change and improve business performance."
